PLAYGROUND

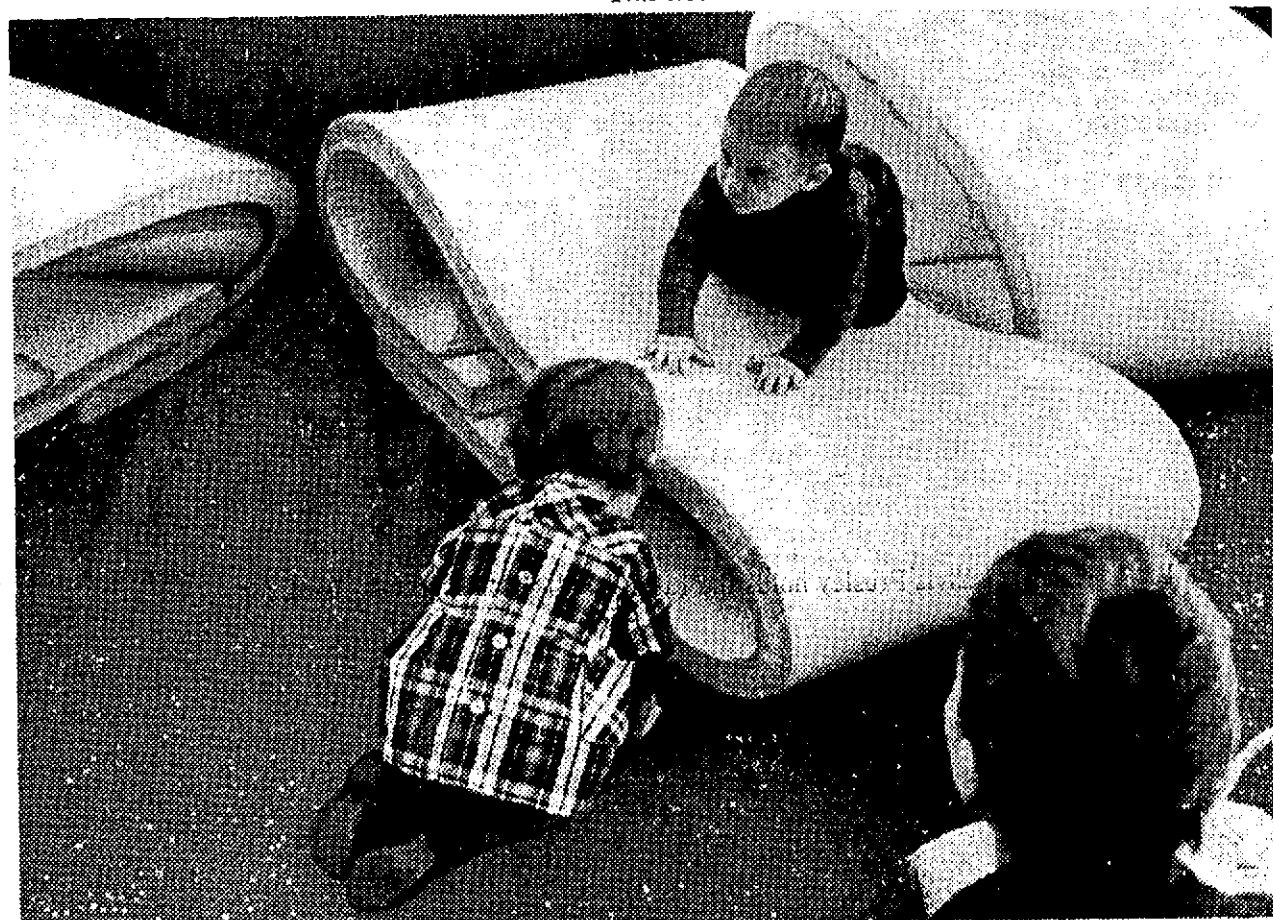

Seated on the end of a see-saw—a flexible fiberglass rod anchored to the ground on other end.

A see-saw that needs only one child to operate without another child as counterbalance—a radome identical to those used in aeronautics is converted into a playhouse—a Fiberglass tank made for storing chemicals is a play structure—and polyethylene jet engine covers are sand boxes.

Thus industry and imagination are combined to provide "Playscape", an attempt to bring diverse products of modern chemistry to children in an updated play environment. Manufacturers contributed the products normally made for non-play industrial uses. The imagination was provided by designer Jerry Lieberman. Because the basic components have been adapted from existing industrial products, they are both inexpensive and easily replaceable. "Playscape" has been designed to be flexible for any space and play situation, from park to school to recreation area or one's own backyard. Children are seen enjoying the experimental playground set up in the Pepsi-Cola Exhibition Gallery in New York City.

BARWICK-BUIE VOWS EXCHANGED

The wedding of Miss Vickie Carole Buié and Nell Barwick was solemnized at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Dec. 2 at the Assembly of God Church in Prescott.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Buié of Prescott, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Violet Barwick and the late Mr. S. Z. Barwick of Hope.

The double ring candlelight ceremony was performed by Mildred White, minister of Central Church before an altar decorated with a central arrangement of white mums and white gladioli with a central arrangement with a pyramid of crystal diamond votive cups, flanked by candelabra holding crystal diamond cut votive lights. The altar was further enhanced with magnolia foliage.

Mrs. W. S. Bishop, organist, presented special music and accompanied Mildred White, soloist, who sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "Because."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full length empire gown of brocade with chapel train, long sleeves, points extending over her hand. Her fingertip veil was held by a crown of seed pearls and crystal. She carried a ballerina bouquet of white frenched carnations interspersed with bridal tulle and white satin hearts backed with English ivy foliage, from which fell a shower of white satin picot ribbon.

Miss Linda James was maid of honor and Miss Carolyn Guy was bridesmaid. They wore empire dresses of red velvet trimmed with white lace and carried ballerina bouquets of white pom mums backed with red tulle.

and green velvet holly leaves. Janet White was flower girl. She wore a red velvet dress trimmed with white lace and carried a white basket decorated with red tulle and white pom mums. Timothy White was ring bearer, and David Barwick, cousin of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Lonnie Buié, Jr., brother of the bride and John McLelland. Miss Diana White presided at the bride's book.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were Mrs. John Vance of Dallas, Mrs. Violet Barwick, G. E. Barwick, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Henry, Mrs. J. M. Kesner, Emma Burke, Eugenia Kesner, Charles E. Russell, B. T. Willhite, V. G. Harmon, Ruthie Mae Campbell, Mrs. Kenneth Harmon, all of Hope, Mrs. David Barwick of Magnolia, and the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Barwick of Little Rock.

After a trip the couple will be at home at 500 S. Johnson St. in Hope where Mrs. Barwick is employed at Barwick Electric Shop.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

A NEW YEAR'S PRAYER

Dear Helen: The letter from "Lisa" had a very familiar ring to it. I, too, was a Lisa a few years back. My parents had marital problems for as long as I could remember. I felt alone and unwanted, very much unloved, and more so when the trouble at home finally ended in a messy divorce.

I have an older brother who came upon one of my letters—for I, too, found solace in my pen and expressed my feelings on paper. It was a letter I would never have mailed, but he showed it to a friend who had studied for the priesthood. His deep insight helped me more than he'll ever know. I hope you'll print what he wrote so that it may help other "Lisas" and also as a tribute to a young man who took time to care.

A PRAYER FOR THE LONELY

I walked the fields today and the glens and the valleys. I felt the sun, the warm rays upon my face. And I was grateful, Lord, for this sense of feeling. From yonder hills the strains of the Ave pleased my ears.

And stirred my heart. And I am grateful, Lord, for this sense of hearing. I touched the tulip and the hyacinth and the azalea in blossom full. And I am grateful, Lord, for this sense of touch. The children played round the carousel today. And I sensed their happiness. And I am grateful, Lord, that I can sense the joy of youth. I saw a child today—an orphan child. And I am grateful, Lord, that I have known both mother and father. My heart aches for those who know not either. I have a friend, an only child. And I am grateful, Lord, for I have a brother who loves me.

Are you so good to everyone? Tell me, Lord. From within myself allow me always to escape, Dear Lord. Where others may see hate, let me see love. To pardon rather than to harm. To have faith where doubt would be easy. To have hope when despair seeks to enter in. To see the light when darkness surrounds me. To spread joy where sadness

ACHES AND PAINS seem to prompt the poses of these two youngsters in Oslo, Norway, but actually they are performing one of the latest dances, in which such contortions as these are an integral part.

Arabian Nights ... At Lunch!

Miss Arshmadel Hilmy, daughter of Ambassador Hilmy, Deputy Representative of the United Arab Republic, models a dress worn by the young peasant brides of Modern Upper Egypt after the Pharaoh's time.

Overhanging chandelier lights form a crown for Mrs. Said Basrawi, wife of the consul general of Saudi Arabia, as she models an exquisite Burgundy silk and gold costume.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Had 40 burnoose and tarbooshed thieves jumped from 40 huge jugs in the Empire Room at New York's Waldorf Astoria recently, the luncheon audience would simply have yawned.

So transported in an Arabian dream were the guests that their only question might have been: "Which is Ali Baba?"

The occasion was a fashion show of native costumes held by the Arab American Women's Friendship Association. The models were the wives of diplomats. And a genii's magic may have been at work when each of those women, who had arrived in chic western clothing, exchanged it for the rich, jeweled, fairy-tale garb of her native land.

Mrs. M. Dey Ould Sidi Baba, wife of the ambassador from Morocco and permanent representative to the United Nations, was crowned in a jeweled caftan. Worn in Morocco for formal occasions, dinner parties or at home in the evenings, the costume was of black velvet beaded in silver and gold in the shape of a flower and centered with precious stones. Hand embroidery in pure silver and gold thread trimmed the front and edged the sleeves. Every woman in the room mentally relegated her own at-home wardrobe to fashion's limbo.

Mrs. Said Basrawi, wife of the consul general of Saudi Arabia and delegate to the Saudi Arabian delegation to the United Nations, looked like a princess. Insaif Basrawi, whose first name means "justice" in Arabic, wore a breath-taking shade of Burgundy red silk encrusted with beaded designs. Embroidered in heavy gold and silver in a wide band, the full tentlike sleeves also serve as a head covering. This "tobe" is worn very long and full and open in front. It goes over a loose dress and is worn by upper-class, pampered ladies. At times they wear modern designer clothes under the tobe.

Two "Druze" costumes were interesting. "Druze" denotes a secret religion known only to initiated members of the Druze sect. One was worn by Mrs. Afaf Hanoun of Lebanon and the other by Mrs. Rafic Jouejati, wife of the counselor of the Syrian Arab Republic. Mrs. Jouejati's costume was Druze from the southern province of Syria, called the Mountain of the Arabs.

From the tarboosh on top of her head gold coins fell to her forehead, extending around her neck to show that the more gold "she" wears the more she is thought of by her fiancé. The dress had a voluminous skirt and featured a "Mamlouk"—an apronlike wisp of sheer fabric to protect the dress.

Mrs. Hanoum's Lebanese Druze costume was one worn before the turn of the last century. Snug-fitting blue brocade trousers and a tunelike coat closed in the front to the waist and left open from there. Her red shoes denoted the upper class. She, too, wore a tarboosh covered with gold coins.

The ohs and ahs from the audience had become a constant chant as the diaphanous, silken and brocade treasures were paraded before us. There's nothing like gold, silver, jewels and silks to tug at a girl's heartstrings.

Mrs. Rashid Al-Rashid, wife of the ambassador of Kuwait (all that oil, you know) and permanent representative to the U.N., wore an outer garment of sheer organza edged with wide bands of beads, sequins and silver and gold. The folds of one sleeve of the voluminous costume were designed as a veil to cover the face and show the eyes seductively. But holding up an arm whenever you want to be sexy might become tiresome.

Mrs. Rashad Mourad, wife of the ambassador and head of the Arab State delegation in N.Y. from the UAR, wore a modern version of the old Pharaonic motif, the lotus flower, on a gold tissue silk garment. The headdress, shaped like a serpent head, is a copy of the one worn by Cleopatra.

The ladies came in dazzling array—Miss Arshmadel Hilmy, daughter of Ambassador Amin Hilmy II of the United Arab Republic, was a smiling package of fashion goodies in her black and gold costume. And Mrs. Mona Shaker, daughter of Mohammed Awad Al-Kony, ambassador of the UAR to the U.N., was a vision in floating pink chiffon, embroidered and sequined.

The show was a treat to the eye and made every lady present in her practical, chic shift wish modern western civilization left a little more room for glamor.

told by Allen that lessons would be a waste of time, since the few things he needed to learn he could pick up on the set. "But we called the agent and told him that Corey said to cancel the show because it would take me two years to learn to act."

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Don shots.

Adams, the flat-voiced sleuth of Betty White, who will once "Get Smart," is the kind of a again preside over NBC's comedian who draws laughs broadcast, describing the floats, from his wife even when he's identifying the bands and ad-dreadly serious.

Recently he telephoned his 14th year in a row, thinks the wife from a hospital and told Rose Parade gets so much attention "because it is unique in accident, I've broken my nose," its field — more like a huge extravaganza than a parade."

Mrs. Adams burst out laughing. When her husband grew indignant she explained that her alarm over his mention of an "accident" was so relieved by news of the broken nose that she felt impelled to laugh.

The accident to Adams was no joke to NBC and Talent Associates, which has an investment of millions riding on the comedian. Like only a few other stars — Lucille Ball, Andy Griffith, Jim Nabors — Adams is virtually irreplaceable in his television series, since his personality is so firmly imprinted on it.

Fortunately for all concerned, Adams is recovering from the accident, with no apparent damage to his face or to his inimitable voice.

How did it happen? "We were rehearsing a fight scene on a building that was under construction," he said. "I had gone through my scene a couple of times, then I stepped back while a couple of actors

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC has been televising the annual Tournament of Roses parade for the past 15 years. CBS got into the act about a decade ago. And next Monday, ABC will have its color cameras, too, on the scene. This kind of three-network coverage is the sort of thing usually reserved for space rehearsed their fight. "I wanted to figure out where I would stand, and I turned around to see the position of a girder. I walked right into a punch. All at once the stars and rockets started going off and I couldn't feel a thing on my nose because it was so shattered. The pain was in my eye, and I was convinced that was where he hit me."

The comic was taken from the studio to a nearby hospital and a plastic surgeon was summoned. A one-hour operation put the nose back together, and Adams remained hospitalized for eight days. Production on the series was suspended indefinitely.

His nose is still bandaged, but he expects to be back in his Jimmy Maxwell Smart form by the time the series resumes filming next week.

Clergy Fights Pettiness in Church

By TERRY MCINNES
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —

The Rev. Lester Kinsolving has little patience with what he calls injustices and pettiness in his Church and has organized a clergy's union to change things.

The 39-year-old Episcopal priest, the son of a bishop, is one of a new breed of clergyman who work outside the traditional job of shepherding a flock in an assigned parish.

Kinsolving shies away from the world "union" in describing his recently incorporated Association of Episcopal Clergy.

"Rather," he said in an interview, "it is a vocational association modeled after the American Bar Association or the American Association of University Professors."

A man of energy, he writes a weekly religious column for the San Francisco Chronicle, works as a reporter for the newspaper, campaigns for reforms in California's abortion laws and is president of the new priests' association.

"There are many causes for the association to fight for," he said, "because the Church is analogous to a large corporation with 10,000 graduate executives and no personnel department."

In his view, injustices range from the administration of the pension fund for widows to salaries paid clergymen.

"Widows of priests are paid one-millionth of the fund's total assets per month," the priest said. The fund, Kinsolving said, totals $160 million and pensioners "receive an average of $153 a month."

"The Church pension fund is operated in a manner approved by the general convention," said Bishop John E. Hines, leader of the Church's clergymen. "Some Church institutions are subject to criticism by people who think they can run them better."

Bishop Hines has described Kinsolving's association as "outside the nature of the Church."

The association also is campaigning for higher pay for priests.

Kinsolving supports himself, his wife and three children by his newspaper work and by writing magazine articles.

"One goal we have is to create conditions where a priest has the freedom to express his personal convictions in sermons to his congregation. With the present lack of freedom, priests are leaving the parochial ministry to work in schools, administration and in special projects such as civil rights," he said.

"The association is growing slowly," Kinsolving said. "We have 150 members from all over the United States, representing 23 dioceses."

These include dioceses in Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Michigan, Georgia, Illinois, Virginia, Washington, D.C., and California, he said.

Kinsolving, son of the late Bishop Arthur B. Kinsolving of Arizona, has done most of his work in missions. He said he resigned one post in New London, N.H., because the members could not agree on construction details of a new church "after 10 years of meetings by 33 committees."

events director in charge of parade coverage, says it is because "everybody loves a parade — the bands, the excitement." In fact, he envisions a time when, with the help of satellites, parade-hungry Americans can see live coverage of Bastille Day celebrations in Paris, the fiesta of flowers in Barcelona, even Chinese New Year in Hong Kong.

The parade involves a lot of work for the on-camera people, Betty White says. On Saturday she and some 100 NBC people will attend a four-hour production meeting to receive their instructions. On Sunday there is a long rehearsal for the commercials and to get acquainted with the descriptions of the floats printed on large cardboard cue cards.

NBC's "Projection, 67" Thursday night was a short year-end wrap-up that seemed to be more of a stunt to use both the Atlantic and Pacific communications satellites than a meaningful look behind and ahead. The half hour show taped earlier in the day had Frank McGee in New York with two newsmen in Tokyo and one in London engaged in monologues on the state of the Far East and Europe. In spite of the satellite gimmick, it was a rather dull program, completely lacking the lively exchanges that sparked the previous night's ABC year-end show.

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

BEACH BOYS POW THE BEATLES IN BRITAIN:—The Beatles' own prediction of their "downfall," reported recently, is borne out in Britain's latest musical poll. America's Beach Boys top them in popularity and also shade the rhythm and blues "Rolling Stones." The tide of U.S. music is rolling strongly in the British Isles. Elvis Presley holds the rating, gain this year, as world's top male singer . . . and Petula Clark ranks as one of the top three girl singers. New beat rising out of the teeming East—India jazz and pop rhythms are beginning to catch on outside that country's borders . . . especially in the big music towns on both U.S. coasts. One reason is that rhythmic complexity of today's music is tuneful duck soup for fingers trained to strumming strings and vocal chords to caterwauling sounds of classical Indian music. Big name here, Rayi Shankar, is currently hitting U.S. concert stages. The "Motions" have really got the notion—Long-haired but less than wild-and-wooly looking, the four "Motions" are Holland's top mop-and-pop group . . . Known for their hits as "Wasted Words" and "Every Step I Take," they're now sweeping outside Holland via tours and record sales . . . so far, mostly in western and North Europe. Meanwhile, back in the U.S.A., the Junk Band—A current side put out by Go-Go Records and now jumping into the top 50, is worth plunking down the money for the title alone—"The Eggplant That Ate Chicago."

It's whopped out, with sort of a nasally Chicago swing, by the recently formed Dr. West's Medicine Show and Junk Band that performs with a battery of deadly musical weapons—guitar, kazoo, tambourine, washboard, 18-year-old car bumper, Taiwan finger piano and Tibetan temple blocks.

CLUB FOR TEENS IN A ROUGH SPOT: Misty-eyed baloney of middle-agers aside, there are times when it can be rough to be young . . . And one of the times it's real hurting rough . . . when a family is troubled with an alcoholic adult. Millions of teen-agers can have their lives badly banged up by family drinking problems . . . considering there are eight million alcoholic adults (most of them parents) in the United States. A few years ago, a California boy, 17, up against a stone wall with two alcoholic parents (they encouraged his idea) started Alateen with other teen men and girls caught up in the same struggle. They found out what Alcoholics Anonymous had learned about destructive drinking—that it's a disease (the alcoholic's body can't take alcohol but emotionally he craves it) . . . that alcoholics don't want to hurt their children (they drink more to hurt themselves) . . . and that reacting to them with disgust and hate only spurs them on. Today, there are several hundred Alateen Clubs—for "help," not "fun." Members, aged 12 to 20, often meet at the same places as the AA's . . . pick their own officers . . . conduct their own meetings, but welcome an adult adviser. Not exactly a happiness group, Alateens don't sit around and talk about their troubles and pour sympathy over each other. Their approach is, "How can we understand better?" or "What can we do that will help us and the others involved?" Not feeling so alone with their problems, they work out solutions for such things as . . . "What does a teen with an alcoholic in the family say to his friends?" "Do I dare invite them to my house?" "How can I keep from getting tied in knots so I can't do my homework?" "What do I do if drinking gets violent?" "Where can I get help?" Hard questions, but the Alateen clubs (reachable through AA or Al-Anon, "d" in the phone book) do a good job of answering them for teen-agers.

PLEASE DON'T EAT THE INK: But you probably already have. This year, the industry announces that the production of edible ink has grown by leaps and bounds . . . with the blessing of the Federal Food and Drug Administration . . . and a major portion of it consumed by you. Negligible in nourishment and not appealing to your taste buds, you eat it because it's necessary—to stamp trade marks and manufacturers' data on tons and tons of edibles you chomp down, such as candy, drug products, and a raft of fruits, meats, vegetables and other savory foods.

Sunday- Monday Saenger

Town butcher Paul Ford, with an ancient sword, leads his townspeople in a counterattack on what he thinks is the first invasion of World War III in "The Russians Are Coming The Russians Are Coming"

Friday-Saturday Saenger

James Mitchum co-stars with Hugh O'Brian and Mickey Rooney in "Ambush Bay,"

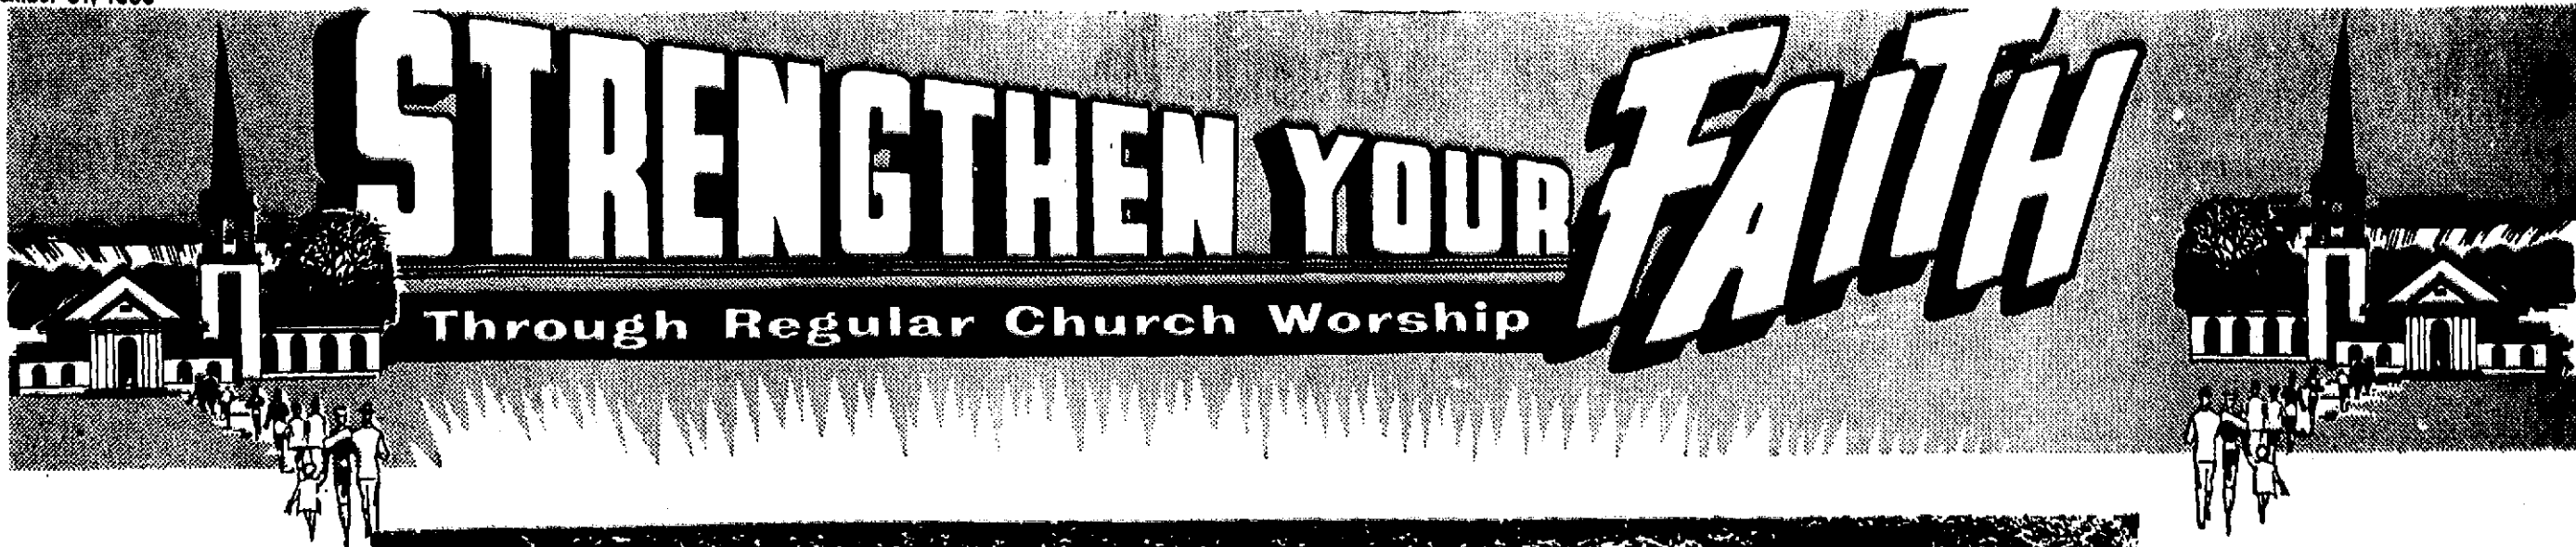

Atomic Accuracy
Accuracy of the so-called atomic clock is the highest in the world. The tuning of an atomic clock can be so precise as to amount to a discrepancy of only one second in 1,000 years.

... was God. He created Heaven and Earth. He gave us this New Year. What will YOU do with it ...
365 days? It is time for us to begin again. This New Year is young, clean, glorious and offers us opportunity to make valid resolutions. As suddenly as the flash from a bolt of lightning ... God gave us this New Year. And as surely as we live this hour, He expects us to use it honorably.
Resolve to attend church more often.

Seek Ye First The Kingdom of God
And His Righteousness;
And All These Things Shall Be Added Unto You.

You Can Do This Best Through Regular Worship At Church. Our Ministers and These Sponsoring Firms Urge You To Attend Your Church Regularly.

Find yourself through FAITH in GOD... man's ONLY HOPE

Both your FAITH and your CHURCH GROW through REGULAR ATTENDANCE

"I must have dozed off. How did that story you were reading to me turn out?"

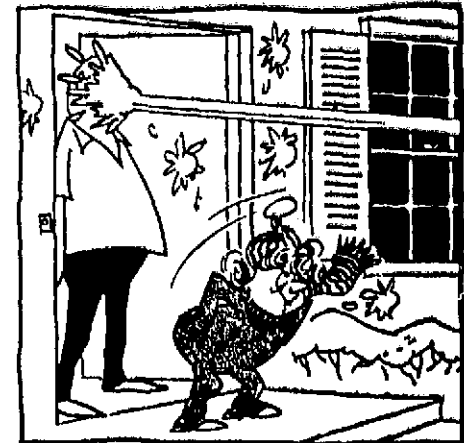

"He's one of the most radical senators in Washington ... always preaching economy!"

South Blows Overbid Slam

By Oswald & James Jacoby

"Well," muttered North, "the year is growing to a close. I hope this is the last slam you will throw away in 1966."

"What do you mean, throw away a slam?" replied South. "When West was smart enough to duck two spades I couldn't make it. Anyway, you had no right to go to six. A club opening would have beaten me right off the bat."

South had won the diamond opening and played three rounds of trumps. East signaled with the king of clubs on the third trump lead. South's next play was a low spade. West played the eight and dummy won with the jack. Back in his hand with his last high diamond, South led another spade. West ducked and dummy won with the queen. At this point if South could only have led his last spade from his own hand he would have made his contract but he was in dummy and forced to lead a spade from there. West took his ten and South still had to lose a club trick.

South would have made his contract if he had simply waited awhile to draw trumps. That way he would have led a spade at trick three. He could afford one trump lead. Back to his own hand with a second trump, he would play the third round and lead a second spade. Then back to his own hand with a diamond and he would lead the third spade and make the hand.

South's remark about North's bidding had some slight merit. North had taken South to six but South had opened with two hearts with a hand that was just a trifle too weak for that bid. His hand could only take eight tricks. He needed to find North with two tricks in order to make game and it is hard to visualize any two trick hand that North would pass opposite a one heart opening.

TV Lineup for Weekend Grid Fans

By RON RAPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer
First television invented the National Drivers Test and then it followed up with the National Health Test, National Citizenship Test and a bunch of others.

This weekend the network moguls have come up with what is surely the most awe-inspiring test of all — the National Television Football Watching Test.

From noon Saturday until almost midnight Monday, (Eastern Standard Time) the American football fan will be able to discover his true feelings toward the little box in the living room. He will be able to watch, almost entirely without channel switching, eight — count 'em eight — football games.

Saturday, there is the Gator Bowl (Tennessee-Syracuse) on ABC at noon, the Cotton Bowl (Georgia-Southern Methodist) on CBS at 2:30 p.m. and the Shrine Game (East-West) on NBC at 4:30 p.m.

Sunday, the pros take over with the AFL Championship game (Buffalo-Kansas City) at 1 p.m. on NBC and the NFL title game (Green Bay-Dallas) on CBS at 4:30 p.m.

Monday, it's back to the colleges. First the Sugar Bowl (Alabama-Nebraska) on NBC at 2 p.m. Then the Rose Bowl (Purdue-Southern California) on NBC at 5 p.m. and finally the Orange Bowl (Georgia Tech-Florida) at 8 p.m. on NBC.

At the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., it was the passing of Tennessee's Dewey Warren against the running of Syracuse's Floyd Little and Larry Csonka.

During the regular season, Tennessee was 7-3 and Syracuse 8-2.

Georgia, 9-1, was a slight favorite over SMU, 8-2, in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas, but Coach Hayden Fry said he thought Southern Methodist has yet to play its best game and "perhaps it will come in the Cotton Bowl."

At the 42nd Shrine game in San Francisco, Don Horn of San Diego State was to alternate with Stanford's Dave Lewis in quarterbacking the West while Benny Russell of Louisville and Danny Talbot of North Carolina were set lead the West.

Nebraska, 9-1, got some bad news when Alabama's star end Ray Perkins appeared recovered from his groin injury in Sugar Bowl practice Thursday. Coach Bear Bryant of the Crimson, 10-0 during the regular season, said Perkins would play in the New Orleans game whether he was in top condition or not.

Southern Cal, 7-3, will have to go with Troy Winslow all the way at quarterback in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena since backup man Tobey Page, who saw a lot of action during the season, is out with a leg injury. Quarterback Bob Griese is the key to victory hopes for Purdue, 8-2.

And in the Orange Bowl, injuries to key Georgia Tech defenders put a crimp in the engineers' hopes of stopping Florida's Steve Spurrier in the Miami game. Linebacker Billy Schroer and defense end Tommy Carlisle have foregone contact work in practice.

Florida Coach Ray Graves, however, says his team is "just where I want it to be. We'll need two-a-day workouts any more."

Buckpasser to End His Vacation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Millionaire Buckpasser, away from competition since winning the two-mile Jockey Club Gold Cup at Aqueduct Oct. 29, ends his vacation Saturday when he makes his West Coast debut in the seven furlongs of the $25,000-added Malibu Stakes at Santa Anita.

Ogden Phipps' great 3-year-old, 1966 Horse of the Year with 12 straight victories in 13 starts in boosting his bank account to $1,218,874, will pick up top-weight of 126 pounds and give from three to 12 pounds to five expected rivals.

Braulio Bezzill be astride the champion.

His likely rivals Saturday include Howard B. Keck's Drin, Fletcher Jones' Fleet Host, George Putnam's Fleet Shoe, Eltias Farm's Kings Favor and Ewing M. Kaufman's Yonder.

New Soccer Commissioner Is Learning

HOUSTON (AP) — Dick Walsh, the commissioner of the new North American Soccer League, says he will have to learn details of the sport along with millions of other Americans.

Walsh, a vice president of the Los Angeles Dodger Baseball Club the past six years, signed a five-year contract Thursday as the first commissioner of the 12-city league that is to launch its inaugural regular season next May 28.

Franchise owners completed a three-day organizational meeting Thursday.

Charter members of the league are Boston, New York, Washington, Toronto, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Houston, Dallas, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Vancouver, B.C.

Good Year for Billy Casper

SAN DIEGO—(NEA)—It's the concentration... the sustained pressure on every shot... the realization that the slightest misjudgment could cost thousands of dollars...

It's all these things—plus a few more—that make Billy Casper cherish the six-week break he takes from the professional golf tour once a year.

"I played 29 tournaments this past year," Billy said. "Physically, it wasn't that tiring a year, although at the end my swing may have been tired. Mentally, well... let me just say that I feel it's good for a golfer to lay off a month or so."

When the golfer is Billy Casper, the layoff is a necessity. Billy was the leading money winner ($121,944) on the Professional Golfers Association tour last year and was the winner of the U.S. Open, two feats which create great demands on an individual's time.

"Once you become good," Billy said, "the game no longer becomes physical, but mental. This is what makes golf such a tough game."

"So much thought and practice go into each shot. All your judgments have to be precise. I know the pros make it look easy, but it isn't when you're striving to be the best. Week after week, it begins to get to you."

Billy stays away from the golf course as much as possible during his vacation, but this year he had to take a few extra trips to break in a new set of clubs. It still left him with some spare time before the reopening of the PGA tour Jan. 12 in San Diego ($66,000 San Diego Open).

In addition to the usual number of appearances which go with being the U.S. Open champion, Billy continues to speak to church groups about the Mormon religion. "Sometimes," Billy said, "I speak three or four times a week."

"The type of speech depends on the situation. I make certain points about setting goals and having plans to work by. I try to relate this to my life on the golf tour. I try to tell the people that each of us has a talent and that once we find it we should not settle for mediocrity, no matter what the profession."

Casper became a Mormon convert a year ago, and, he maintains this change in his life has helped him tremendously on the golf course as well as off it.

"Before... I felt a void in my life," Casper said. "I kept wondering: What is the overall plan?"

Now, he says, he is learning.

It was a good year in many ways for Billy Casper.

Pressure Is Really on Cowboys

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer
DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — When underdog Dallas steps into the big pressure game with Green Bay Sunday for the National Football League title, quarterback Don Meredith figures the young Cowboys will be facing the challenge of a lifetime.

"We consider Green Bay the supreme test," said Meredith. If ever a team had a challenge we've got one Sunday. I want to beat Green Bay so badly because of what they represent—the best in football.

"It isn't the money so much, although that is important. When we had a club meeting to vote on shares there were no problems, no arguments. And when you vote somebody a share or a part of a share you are taking quite a bit out of your pocket."

"As for me, I don't think it would make any difference whether they gave you $5,000 or $25,000 for winning the Super Bowl. If I was in the American Football League I'd almost pay to let me play in it. If we win Sunday, we will be representing the whole NFL in Los Angeles Jan. 15. I'd pay them to let me play, and all of our squad feels the same way."

"But first of all, we have got to establish ourselves as NFL champions. Until that time we can think only of this one coming up Sunday."

Willie Townes, the hulking rookie defensive end who had won a job with the first team, agreed with Meredith about the Packers.

"Green Bay is the greatest team I ever saw," he said. "We figure man for man we are just as good. They are no bigger and no faster than us."

The Cowboys have finished their hard work for the big game in the Cotton Bowl. They are tapering off today and will finish up Saturday with a limbering up drill.

Green Bay has been working out in Tulsa, Okla., all week and is due to fly into Dallas this afternoon after a morning drill at Skelly Stadium.

Coach Vince Lombardi will send the defending NFL champions through a brief workout Saturday morning at a Dallas park.

A sellout of 75,504 fans has been assured for some time.

Game time is 4:05 p.m. EST, with network (CBS) radio and television coverage.

The latest weather forecast for Sunday is for a high temperature of around 40 degrees and the possibility of rain.

Don Perkins, the most impressive fullback of the Dallas Cowboys, insists he's not really quitting football to go into politics, drawing a fine line between his new job as a special assistant to the governor of New Mexico (like Don, a Republican) and "actually running for legislative office." ... His most pleasant memory of his six years in pro ball: "When I was named to the all-pro team by the players (NEA's 1962 team)."

Although he's listed at 206, Perkins admits he played a tough fullback role at 200 or a shade under... and "fessed up he stood only 5-10 (they used to bill him a six-footer). How did he decrease a couple of inches? "From stopping linebackers and butting linemen" (with smile).

Billy Casper, most famous athlete in the weightless department, reveals that he actually went overboard on his diet kick—from 220 to a meager 165, which affected his stamina. So before he went out in '66 and captured all major laurels as Golfer of the Year, he gorged himself back to 180. Casper is also off many of the exotic foods which graced his diet, like whale and buffalo meat, though "we still consume wild game." ...

Long noted as the finest putter in the game, Casper objects, "I'm good, but not exceptional. Seems like everyone I play with on the tour out-putts me that particular round." ...

Most AFL players were rooting for the Kansas City Chiefs to beat the Buffalo Bills in the AFL title game because, as veteran Larry Grantham of the New York Jets noted, "I would like to see the American Football League make a strong showing in the Super Bowl, and with its superstars, I think Kansas City would make the best representative." ... Grantham mixed reports he might retire: "I'm only 28, and there's too much money to be made now in this game." ...

Joe Campanella was a surprise choice to succeed Don Kellef as general manager of the Baltimore Colts, especially since he'd been out of football for 10 years after retiring as a player. "What got me interested again," he says, "was when I went with the Colts to the Playoff Bowl last year and got close to the kids." ...

Looking back on his rookie year in pro ball, in which he was acclaimed the NFL's top newcomer, linebacker Tommy Nobis of the Atlanta Falcons feels he may have been a victim of overhustling. "Some backs," he says, "particularly Ken Willard and John David Crow of the 49ers, took advantage of me. They were smart enough to get me going one way and then going the other themselves—what we call veering." ...

If safety Mel Renfro, whose switch to running back in Dallas was aborted by an opening game injury, ever returns to offense, it'll only be as a flanker... to give the Cowboys a dual threat with Bob Hayes. ...

Arizona State's Frank Kush was on a recruiting trip in the East. "I'm looking for linemen," he noted. "I've had backs." ... And then he ticked off the names of Charles Taylor (Redskins), Tony Lorick (Colts), Gene Foster (Chargers), Gary Lewis (49ers), Larry Todd (Raiders), Henry Carr (Giants)... all of whom were on his squad at the same time. ...

Between you'n' me, Tex Schramm, vice-prexy and general manager of the Dallas Cowboys, says he wouldn't be at all interested in the NFL presidency, as reported. He couldn't afford it (since he now owns a piece of the Cowboys). ...

Maryland Expected to Name Ward

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Bob Ward, the University of Maryland's first All-American football player, was expected to return as a big man on campus today and be named head coach of his alma mater.

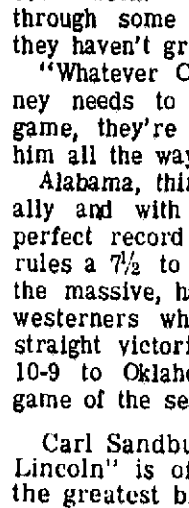

The naming of Ward had been expected since it was confirmed earlier in the week that he had been the only candidate for the post interviewed twice by screening committee.

Ward served last season as head line coach at the U.S. Military Academy.

After making the first to All-America as a 185-pound guard in 1950-51, Ward served as an assistant coach at Maryland for six years. He also, an assistant at Iowa State at Oklahoma before going to West Point.

Maryland began its search for a new coach earlier this month when Lou Saban resigned to sign a lucrative 10-year contract with the Denver Broncos of the American Football League.

Bowl Games Feature Top Quarterbacks

By FRANK ECK

AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

Monday, Jan. 2 may go down in football history as the day the college quarterback went into orbit. Three great signal-calling passers will be seen in action on that day.

Early that afternoon a television viewer can watch Alabama's Kenny (Snake) Stabler in action against Big Eight champion Nebraska in the Sugar Bowl. Later that day in the Rose Bowl, Purdue's Bob Griese is expected to lead the Big Ten runnerup to a smashing victory over Southern California.

And that night in the Orange Bowl, it will be Steve Spurrier, the Heisman Trophy winner, pitching long and short passes for Florida against once beaten Georgia Tech.

The warmup for the Jan. 2 tripleheader begins Saturday, Dec. 31 when Tennessee opposes Syracuse in Jacksonville's Gator Bowl and Southern Methodist plays host to Georgia in the Dallas Cotton Bowl.

College football's big name this year was Spurrier, who is expected to be the first choice of the New York Giants, pro football's neediest team.

Spurrier is the first Southeastern Conference athlete ever to account for 2,000 yards via passing in one season. In 10 regular games, he accounted for 2,012 yards and 16 touchdowns passing. He completed 179 passes in 291 attempts.

Stabler gained 956 yards passing but is even better than the record shows. He completed 74 of 114 passes, a phenomenal record. Had he played for any team but Alabama he would have passed more. The Crimson Tide was unbeaten and with a stout defense limiting 10 rivals to 37 points for the season, it wasn't necessary for Coach Bear Bryant to have anyone throw the ball unnecessarily. Stabler apparently had orders to carry the ball when ever possible for he gained 396 yards on the ground. He had only five passes intercepted.

Purdue's Griese, runnerup to Spurrier in the Heisman voting, had the misfortune to go up against Notre Dame and Michigan State. These were the only two setbacks for the Boiler-makers. However, Griese still led Big Ten performers in all games in scoring with 81 points, 21 more than runnerup Jim Detwiler. Michigan halfback.

The Gator Bowl will feature the passer against the running attack. Tennessee's junior quarterback Dewey Warren led the SEC in touchdown passes with 18 and was second in yards gained overhead with 1,716.

Syracuse has two great runners in Floyd Little, the nation's fourth best scorer with 92 points.

and Larry Csonka, the nation's ninth best rusher with 1,012 yards gained on 197 carries. This pair accounted for 22 TDs, with Little getting 15.

Georgia, beaten only once (a 7-6 upset at the hands of Miami, Fla.), will furnish a diversified attack against SMU in the Cotton Bowl. Bulldogs to watch are quarterback Kirby Moore, Ronnie Jenkins and little Bobby Etter, Georgia's kicker who led the SEC in scoring with 57 points. Etter kicked 12 field goals in 15 attempts and missed only one of 23 conversions. He missed in the 23-14 victory over Georgia Tech when one of his own rooters fired a cannon just as Etter was about to kick.

Moore can pass and run and Jenkins in a workhorse as a ball carrier.

Jap Doctor Key Man in Hockey Win

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The most important man in the New York Rangers' 4-2 National Hockey League victory over Detroit Thursday night wasn't Rod Gilbert, who scored two goals and raised his league leading total to 19, or Jean Ratelle, who potted the winning goal.

It was a short, heavy Japanese physician, who smokes long black cigars and specializes in back operations on French Canadian hockey players.

Dr. Kazuo Yanagisawa is the man responsible for the presence of Gilbert and Ratelle in the Rangers' line-up. Inside of four months last spring, Dr. Yanagisawa performed virtually identical spinal fusions on the two young players, whose hockey careers have been strangely intermingled for 15 years.

Gilbert and Ratelle grew up together in Montreal, played schoolboy hockey together, were scouted and turned pro together by the Rangers and reached the NHL together.

Both have had back trouble — Gilbert since 1960 and Ratelle more recently.

Last February, Dr. Yanagisawa performed the intricate spinal fusion on Gilbert and in June, Ratelle went under his knife for the same operation.

Now they are back together again, and Thursday night they made life miserable for Detroit goalie Roger Crozier.

The two-goal game was the fifth Gilbert has had this season. He also turned in the first hat trick of his career in the second game of the season.

"That was the big one for me," he said. "We were losing 4-1 and my three goals helped us get a 4-4 tie that night. After that, I knew the back would hold up and I'd be all right."

Dr. Yanagisawa puffed contentedly on his cigar as he walked out of Madison Square Garden. It was almost as if he knew it all the time.

Mourns a Friend

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—On an evening when Claude and Charlene Smithy wanted to get out of the house, Claude would pick up the phone and ask Loyd Phillips to come over and baby-sit.

Loyd would gather his books, call his girl friend and without hesitation head for the Smithy home.

"No," Loyd said, "I never changed any diapers. Betsy did all that."

Loyd Phillips and Claude Smithy had developed a close friendship since meeting at the University of Arkansas.

Loyd didn't realize that by his senior year he would be a pallbearer at Claude Smithy's funeral.

Phillips and Smithy were defensive tackles on the University of Arkansas football team, Loyd an All-American and Smithy a second stringer this season.

"He had some injuries earlier and lost the job to my brother (Terry)," Loyd said. "But Claude was a real good football player."

Claude Smithy was injured Oct. 29 in Arkansas' game against Texas A&M.

"Nobody realized he was hurt," Phillips said. "He was joking around on the sidelines and didn't appear to be sick. Later, the coaches re-ran the films of the game and no matter how many times they looked, they couldn't detect when or how Claude had been injured."

"This wasn't Smithy's first head injury. During spring practice he had been hit and the result was a cranial blood clot. After his collapse in the Arkansas dressing room, he was taken to the hospital where the diagnosis was a cerebral hemorrhage. He never regained consciousness.

"He was in a coma for three weeks," Phillips said. "Then on the Tuesday before the Texas Tech game, they called us together before practice and told us Claude had died."

"The funeral was on Thursday. I was a pallbearer. So was Dick Cunningham (offensive tackle), who was with Claude in the dressing room when he collapsed. Claude had told him he had a headache. The next thing we knew, he was in the hospital."

Arkansas lost that weekend to Texas Tech.

"We just didn't have our heart in it," Phillips said. "We played a poor football game."

The loss cost Arkansas the Southwest Conference championship and a bid to the Cotton Bowl.

But it didn't really matter. The Cotton Bowl... the Southwest Conference Championship... football... they all seemed unimportant now.

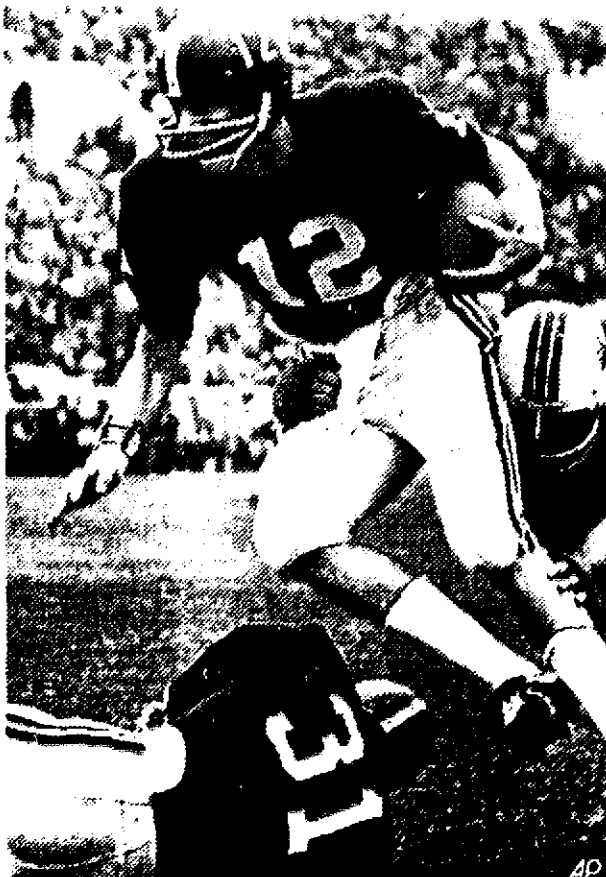

What did seem important was Claude Smithy's widow and his year-old daughter, Kimberly Ann.

"Charlene and her daughter are being taken care of," Phillips said. "A trust fund has been established and Claude had a nice insurance

Never Too Old

Another wonder has been worked by Medical Science. An Atlanta dentist says that now, thanks to modern orthodontics, "protrusion and separation of the front teeth" can be eliminated and ladies of all ages can be made superbly kissable.

That is, needless to say, great news for the ladies, but as our doctor hero points out it is even better for the men, particularly the grandfathers, who find that grandmothers in their declining years become less smokable. "One grandmother," he reveals, "said it was the most exciting thing that had happened to her in many years and only regretted that she had not had the protruding teeth corrected when she was a 'young girl' of 50."

We are on the way, it is clear, to becoming a Nation of Love, with a smack! smack! here and a smack! smack! there, here a smack! there a smack! everywhere a smack! smack! Love, as that grand old song goes, will be sweeping the country. The prospect is utterly delightful. A kiss in time saves all sorts of trouble later, and now thanks again to medical science—a kissing we shall go, forever and ever and ever... —Greensboro (N. C.) Daily News

The X in Xmas

As the years go by there seems to be less and less use of Xmas and it is just as well. Perennially many people have been offended by what they considered an irreverent abbreviation for Christmas. They blame space-saving advertisers and indolent writers.

As a matter of historical fact, however, there is nothing irreligious about Xmas. The X in Xmas is really the Greek letter and was originally employed to mean Christ or Christian. The usage persisted for many years, partly, we suppose, as a convenience when manuscripts were really produced by hand. —Memphis (Tenn.) Commercial Appeal

War Claims 77,000 This Year and Will Increase in 1967

EDITOR'S NOTE — Where do the United States and its allies stand in Vietnam at the start of 1967 compared with the start of 1966? How has the situation changed this year? Here is an analysis by one of the most experienced reporters in Vietnam, winner of a Pulitzer Prize for his reporting from that country.

By PETER ARNETT
SAIGON, South Vietnam — This has been the bloodiest year of the Vietnam war. Allied commanders have few illusions about what 1967 will bring.

An estimated 77,000 soldiers have fallen on the battlefields of Vietnam in 1966, two-thirds more than in the previous year. Most of these dead were Communist dead, yet high hopes that the huge allied buildup would break the enemy back once and for all in 1966 have not materialized.

The prospects are for more vicious battles, a lengthening casualty list, and a steady escalation that brings with it the threat of an ever larger conflict. Allied commanders are more sober about prospects this year than ever before, and forecasts of "victory" come sparingly now that the best American military units have found and fought the enemy in the highlands, the plateaus and the coastal valleys, beaten him, and been forced to return again and again to the same battlefields to fight once more.

The enemy force has grown larger, despite an estimated 52,000 dead in 1966. By late December he was fielding an army of 280,000 men, or 50,000 more than a year ago.

The U.S. Command believes that not until late 1967 or early 1968 will American strength be sufficient to kill more of the enemy than can be replaced. The United States will have to provide the troops to do the job because the Vietnamese army is now considered at its peak strength.

The prospect is gloomy for an early military victory. But at least the past year has removed the specter of a military defeat, considered a possibility early in 1965.

As 1966 began the U.S. Army's 25th Division was pouring into Vietnam to boost U.S. strength past the 200,000 mark. Now ground troops number nearly 380,000.

But the Communists appear as willing as ever to continue paying the high price that the conventional-type battles invariably cost them under the crushing superiority of allied firepower.

Measured in human life, the Communists suffered three times more dead in 1966 than the combined allies — about 5, 000 Americans, 10,000 Vietnamese, 600 from other nations. From the propaganda viewpoint, some observers believe, the Communists are prepared to sacrifice 20 of their own for one American. They evidently feel that U.S. public opinion will eventually turn against the war if American casualties continue.

Missiles That Don't Work Well, Ordered

By BEM PRICE
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has just ordered $6.1-million worth of Shrikes, the air-to-ground missile which, according to some reports, haven't worked too well in Vietnam.

Whether they work as intended, a Navy source said Thursday night, the fact remains that the demand for Shrikes in Vietnam exceeds the available supply.

A $4.4-million contract for Shrikes was let Wednesday to the Sperry Rand Corp., of Bristol, Tenn., along with a $1.7-million contract to Texas Instruments, Inc., of Dallas, Tex.

So far unofficial figures indicate $84.5 million has been spent on the 1,500-mile an hour Shrike. Official figures were not immediately available.

While the Navy is still buying Shrikes, reports are circulating in the Pentagon that contracts are being drawn for production of a Shrike replacement. The figure generally used is $90 million to $100 million.

The Shrike, which came into the combat inventory in 1965, is known as an antiradiation missile.

It is designed to home on the electronic beams emitted by the enemy's radar. This radar is used by the North Vietnamese to detect approaching aircraft and for controlling the aim of guns and missiles.

There have been reports that the Shrike, which is quite similar in design and appearance to the Sparrow III air-to-air missile, is confused when the enemy flicks his radar sets at multiple sites on and off.

Cotton Bale Plan Affirmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said Wednesday that official returns confirmed an unofficial count showing farmers' approval of a $1-a-bale assessment on their cotton to finance a research and market development program.

The proposal carried 183,853 to 83,366 in the official returns. That 68 per cent favorable majority was just above the necessary two-thirds.

Differences Sharp in Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — Will President Johnson's administration be dominated by the hawks or the doves in 1967?

There are sharp differences in the ranks, but the prevailing attitude in Congress appears to be hawk-ish.

White House advisers, divide too, seem also to lean toward a hawk-lining increase in military pressure in Vietnam over attempts to lure the Communists to a conference table with a dove-like approach.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, presidential adviser Walt Rostow and most of the generals and admirals are acknowledged hawks. Ambassadors Arthur Goldberg and W. Averell Harriman, along with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, are considered doves for the most part.

The President, who must make the final decision to escalate or not, keeps ordering more troops into the field, while at the same time holding out the olive branch to the Communist government of North Vietnam.

One thing is certain. Failure to achieve peace talks in the new year will increase demands for escalation to end the war militarily.

Already, Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee has called for "the absolute annihilation of Hanoi and Haiphong if it is necessary to victory." Hanoi is North Vietnam's capital; Haiphong its main port.

What appears to be the dominant view in the Senate has been put by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, in these words: "Their continued intransigence leaves us no choice but to inflict greater punishment on the Communists until they halt their aggression. I am convinced that the use of superior force is the only means by which they can be forced to the conference table."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., had this to say: "As far as what weapons and techniques are needed to bring about victory or cause them to sit down at a conference table, it is a military problem, not a civilian problem."

India May Up Marriage Age

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The Indian government is considering raising the minimum legal age for women to marry from 16 to 21 in an attempt to slow down the population explosion.

Cong Breaks Truce with Big Attack

Saigon, South Vietnam-AP- A two-day truce in the Vietnam war opened today to the noise of gunfire today. The allies reported the Communists launched one large attack and nearly 40 lesser assaults.

A unit of the U. S. 101st Airborne Division reported a small arms and mortar attack in the central highlands from a Communist force estimated at battalion size, or 500 men.

A U.S. spokesman said the airborne troops returned the fire and that the engagement, 14 miles northeast of Kontum City was still under way at 4:30 p.m., nearly three hours later.

American casualties were light and the enemy losses were not known, the spokesman said. The engagement was the largest of 37 reported by the U.S. and South Vietnamese military commands in the first 12 hours after the ceasefire started at 7 a.m.

New Year's Eve Is Best Time for Self Pity and Brooding

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — New Year's Eve is the best time of year for brooding and self-pity, says one of the world's foremost masochists.

"An annual orgy of self-flagellation," Dan Greenburg calls the holiday in somber appreciation.

Greenburg, a lantern-jawed young man of 30 with the most mournful face this side of a dyspeptic bloodhound, is the author — with Marcia Jacobs — of the training manual "How To Make Yourself Miserable."

One of the good things about New Year's Eve, Greenburg points out, is that you can start dreading it just as soon as Thanksgiving is over, giving you more than a month of unalloyed misery.

He ticks off what you can look forward to:

"1. The inevitable impossibility of obtaining reservations at any good restaurant or show;

"2. The prospect of being repeatedly jostled by drunken revelers or maimed by drunken drivers;

"3. The humiliation of paying $15 to $30 per person for a glass of cheap champagne, an imitation TV dinner and two dime-store party favors."

If you're single, as Greenburg is, you are permitted the additional anxiety that you'll end up with a date you'll be embarrassed to be seen with. Or maybe you won't be able to get one at all.

Last New Year's Eve, Marcia fixed Dan up with a blind date who spent the entire evening saying how accident-prone she was.

"I was afraid to get close to her," he recalls. "Then we went to a party with wall-to-wall people, who kept telling each other what a great time they were having. It was awful."

Naturally he is suffering immeasurably as this year's great night draws near.

But he has the same alternatives as everyone else:

"1. Deliberately ostracize yourself from your friends and be miserable alone, or

"2. Put on a funny hat and drink too much with the rest of the group, postponing your

Inspirational and Informative Confetti About New Year's

Here's some informative and inspirational confetti about New Year's.

Did you know that New Year's was not always celebrated on January 1, and that it still isn't in many places? According to a local Kiwanis Club bulletin of 1959 (some of us are inclined to be of the pack rat type), prior to 1752 England and her colonies observed New Year's on March 25. The Hebrews observed a 10 day New Year season at the time of the autumnal equinox. Most of the Moslem calendars start with the new moon and, thus, move backward through the entire year in about 3 1/2 years.

With a young year knocking at the door we are reminded of a 3,000-year-old bit of wisdom first expounded by the philosopher Zoroaster (and which may or may not have appeared in a Persian civic club bulletin). He said, "Youth is not a time of life; it is a state of mind. Nobody grows old by deserting their ideals. Years wrinkle the skin, but the giving up of enthusiasm, the soul. Worry, doubt, self-distrust, fear, and despair . . . these are the long years that bow the head and turn the growing spirit back to dust."

Almost everyone has had something to say on this subject. Saint Paul spoke of "forgetting the first hours of the extended what lies behind and straining forward to what lies ahead, I showed the prize of the upward call of week's Christmas holiday period in Christ Jesus." — Philippians 3:13 (R.S.V.)

The first of this week was Christmas and gifts were prominent in varying degrees. It has been said that the ideal gifts are: to your enemy, forgiveness; to an opponent, tolerance; to a friend, your heart; to a customer, service; to all men, charity; to every child, a good example; to yourself, respect. But by this time tomorrow, January 1, we all will have still another gift—a new year.

Of all gifts this is the only one with as wide an assortment of uses and abuses, the only one whose value depends entirely on the regard paid it by the recipient. You will never see this gift displayed in a store window, only in the lives of people on this earth.

God is the giver and mankind the recipient. In a way, it's like getting a cashier's check for 365 days. How will you spend yours this year and for what? For such a wonderful gift—a new chance, a new opportunity, a new year—we give Thee thanks.

Democrats in Mood to Slow Spending

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's a slowdown, sentiment among Democrats and it could help create a season of caution and reflection on Capitol Hill.

Still in congressional command despite a stinging election setback, the Democrats themselves seem worried about the shape of the "Great Society" programs they produced for President Johnson.

Its most explosive expression came Dec. 15, when 18 Democratic governors talked until midnight at White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., and agreed that the Great Society is moving too fast for the voters' taste.

They blamed antiadministration sentiment for the election returns which gave Republicans 47 new seats in the House, 3 in the Senate and 8 governorships.

"I think the programs are coming too fast, without proper crystallization and organization," said Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois.

And complaints about the administration of Johnson launched programs apparently dominated the President's 4 1/2-hour talk with nine of the party's governors at the LBJ Ranch a week ago.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has harshly criticized the governors' political assault on Johnson. But Mansfield, too, is a member of the slowdown school.

He said his words of caution — in a letter to Senate committee chairmen — were not prompted by election day setbacks or by the governors' grumbling.

Mansfield said he had been urging for more than a year that Congress slow down and assess what it has done.

On Jan. 7, just before the last session convened, Mansfield said Congress probably would face only a limited agenda of presidential requests, "because we passed so much legislation last session."

"It's time to stop, look and listen now," he said then. It didn't turn out that way.

Holiday Death Toll Up Sharply

Traffic deaths in the nation in the first hours of the extended first year weekend today showed a sharp decrease over press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of week's Christmas holiday period in Christ Jesus." — Philippians 3:13 (R.S.V.)

Since the count started at 6 p.m. local time Friday, 15 traffic fatalities had been reported. At the same time last Saturday the toll was 76.

The National Safety Council has estimated that by the end of the 78-hour holiday period at midnight Monday between 460 and 540 persons may be killed in motor vehicle accidents.

The Associated Press for comparative purposes, made a survey of deaths on the highway during a nonholiday weekend of corresponding three-day length — from 6 p.m. Friday Dec. 9 to midnight Monday, Dec. 12. The count was 391.

The traffic death toll during the recent Christmas observance was 584, much higher than the nonholiday total, but far below the Christmas period record of 720 set during a three-day holiday in 1965.

There was wet weather in many parts of the country, with snow in parts of New Mexico and Arizona and light amounts along the northern border states from Montana to the eastern Great Lakes.

Hazardous driving warnings were in effect in some parts of the snow and sleet belts.

During the 1965-1966 New Year three-day observance, the death toll was 546, a record for the holiday. The total of 748 killed in highway accidents during this year's Thanksgiving celebration of four days is the record high for any holiday period. The lowest toll for any three-day New Year period since World War II was 269 set in 1949.

H. R. Leonard Dies Suddenly

Hilary Russell Leonard, 43, production manager for Meyer's Bakery here for the past five years, died unexpectedly yesterday while at lunch. He was rushed to a local hospital by an Oakcrest ambulance but was dead on arrival.

The body was taken to Irby Funeral Home at Rector, Ark. where arrangements will be announced.

U.S. Offers to Aid Poles

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The United States has offered to finance "mutually beneficial" projects in Poland with much of the $26 million due it next year on the Polish debt.

U.S. Ambassador John A. Gronowski presented the proposal Thursday to Deputy Foreign Minister Jozef Winiewicz and Foreign Trade Minister Witold Trampeznyski. There was no immediate reaction from the Polish government.

Fallout From China

TOKYO (AP) — Radioactive fallout from Communist China's fifth nuclear test was detected throughout Japan today, the government reported.

But the level of radiation in particles collected by scientists was still much lower than that when the main cloud from Peking's third test last May passed over Japan, the government's radioactivity countermeasures headquarters said.

Scientists said they needed further analysis of the fallout before they could get some clue to the nature of the Chinese test. Japanese experts have speculated that the nuclear device contained hydrogen-bomb elements.
